"More girls swear than you think. I just know any quantity of them that are positively shocking when they get provoked. My chum Mignon is really terrible sometimes. I told her theother day that I would have to stop going with her if she didn't refrain from saying bad words. Ska couldn't miss a car, stub her toe, or burst a button off her glove but she expressed herself most frightfully right before everybody. Now, it isn't nice, is it, for a girl to use swear words? And it will really get to be a regular thing with us if we don't stop. I am already addicted to the habit. Why, I broke the point off my thumb nail to-day, and when I did it I just let out good."

"What did you say?" the bashful young man managed to ask. "I said 'O devil."

A PIUTE AND GOLIATH.

Tradition of the Slaughterof an Indian Ciant with a Poisoned Ar-

The Piute Indians have a tradition that extends back they know not how far into "the long ago" of an Indian of giant stature who gave them trouble. They say that the giant warrior came from the north. He took up with a fearful and threatening cough his abode near Pyramid lake and for several months, and after trying | made war on the Piutes, killing many of their men. The giant was finally slain by a Piute David, who crept up behind him and drove a poisoned arrow into his body, between the shoulder blades. The functions of digestion and secretion are assisted by its use, and a vigorous as well as regular condition of the system promoted by it. Constitution and physique are thus defended against the inroads of malaria by this matchless preventive, which is also a certain and thorough remedy in the worst cases of intermittent and a vigorous as well as regular conditions of digestion and secretion are assisted by its use, and a vigorous as well as regular condition of the system of the condition of digestion and secretion are assisted by its use, and a vigorous as well as regular condition of the system of the condition of the system of the condition are assisted by its use. der blades. Two or three of the giant's tracks and his grave are shown to this day.

The tracts are near the Truckee river, between Wadsworth and Pyramid lake. They are in soft sandstone, and are still kept clear of sand and soil. Every Indian that passes the spot stoops and sweeps out any dirt that may have lodged in the big tracks. The giant's grave is not far from where the tracks are seen. The was, will do well to make a note of | grave is always kept clear of vegetation; any grass or weeds seen growing on it are pulled up by the roots. In this way the spot has always been kept marked. The Indians also have a tradition of huge animals that roamed the country. They say these animals had horns with which they were able to uproot trees. To rid themselves of these great beasts the whole Piute tribe turned out, surrounded the herd and drove them into Pyramid lake. where all were drowned. Even now. when the lake is seen rolling about far out from shore, the Indians point to the waves and say they are the backs of the monster beasts.—Chicago News.

Patriotic.

The attractions of foreign lands never displace his own country in the affections of the right-minded traveler. "Home is best," and we must always feel a certain respect for patriotic enthusiasm. This respect rises to admiration for the sentiment of the young American of whom the Albany Argus

A young lady of Seattle, who has been forwarding very interesting accounts of her travels in Europe to her friends at home, sent her last letter from Paris.

She was enthusiastic over the French capital, and after saying everything else that she could in its favor, raptur-ously declared, "To my mind it is the Seattle of Europe!"

The Relief of Tears.

It may comfort some nervous and highly emotional women to learn that a French physician has declared infavor of what women always refer to as a "good cry." This physician encourages groaning and crying during surgical operations, and is of the opinion that such patients as yield to their emotions and let nature's grand outlets for the alleviaton of pain remain unchoked recover more quickly than those who from a feeling that it is an exhibition of weakness to utter groans and cries, restrain themselves. He cites the case of a man who lowered his pulse sixty beats by giving himself up noisily to his strained and nervous condition for two hours. Now that science sanctions a "good cry" there seems to be no reason why women should not have all they want of them.-Cincinnati Gazette.

A Nation of Cities.

Russia in Europe, with an area twothirds of our own, a greater population and ancient settlement, has only four cities of 200,000 inhabitants or over while we have sixteen. Germany, with 250 inhabitants to the square mile, has only eight cities of 200,000 inhabitants or over, and France, with an almost equal density of population, has but four such cities. No European country has more than one city of a million inhabitants or over; we have three. In fact. all Europe, with her 400,000,000 people, has but four cities of a million inhabitants or upward, while with only 63,000,000 inhabitants, we fall but one behind. ..
